

Europe's most future-ready community for strategic agricultural decisions.

We strengthen owners and leaders to navigate agronomy, technology, capital, regulation, and succession - securing European agriculture's position in 2035 and beyond.

Built for the people making the hard calls

You run a serious farming operation. The decisions are big, the margins are tight, and most people around you haven't operated at the same scale. DFA was built for exactly that position.

What makes DFA different

Danish roots, European reach and beyond

DFA is shaped by a tradition of agricultural excellence - built on trust, openness, and a culture of continuous improvement. World-class education, efficient leadership, high standards, and a collaborative spirit that is distinctly Danish.

Collective intelligence, in confidence

Our members share production results, leadership challenges, and strategic decisions in a setting built on trust. You get honest input from people with skin in the game - not consultants, not vendors, real operators.

Foresight, not just best practice

The agricultural sector is changing faster than most institutions can track. DFA members stay ahead - not by reacting, but by thinking together about what comes next: regulation, technology, land markets, succession, and more.

Your next decision could be better.

That's why DFA members don't make them alone.

Open internationally to primary agricultural producers, farm owners, and farming businesses.

Whether you are based in Copenhagen or Kyiv, managing 200 hectares or 20,000, a DFA membership gives you direct access to one of Europe's most experienced agricultural communities.

When your farm business joins, everyone on your team - owners, managers, specialists, and the next generation - gets full access to all DFA activities.

What membership gives you

Experience Sharing
Peer Groups
